5. Licensing rights for software

The form of cooperation with LANGMaster Company applying the licensing rights for the software is mainly convenient for companies which would like to use their own language data for the testing.

Good example could be language schools, language agencies, secondary schools or universities that run their own internal language school.

Upon signing the licensing contract, LANGMaster Company will implement and establishes the eTestMe.com application on their server including all the author's tools enabling implementation of the language data. Any other cooperation with the client depends on their technical possibilities and ideas how to make use of the testing platform whether it is preparation for implementing the data, application development based on the client's specific needs or just a regular application maintenance.

Write to us and we are sure together we can come up with a technical solution based on which we will be able to prepare a business offer meeting your requirements.
